

Welcome to the LWS/SDO-3/SOHO-26/GONG-2011 Workshop!

The organizers of the LWS/SDO-3/SOHO26/GONG-2011 workshop gratefully acknowledge the support of Stanford, NASA, ESA, and NSF.

For your convenience, below is logistical information. Please feel free to contact Haruko Makitani, Nancy Christiansen or Sara McCardle-Blunk at the registration desk if you have questions.

Wireless Internet Access

Guest wireless access to the internet is available on Stanford Campus for LWS/SDO-3/SOHO26/GONG-2011 workshop attendees. The access information will be provided at the registrations desk.

Additional instructions for using wireless network on campus:

- 1) While using the guest network, you will be asked to authenticate every 4 hours. Just follow the login instructions above. You can log into the guest wireless network again.
- 2) Similar to Starbucks or MacDonald's, guests don't have an SMTP server available to send email. Example: If your email client normally connects via Earthlink, your SMTP settings will tell the wireless network to use Earthlink to send mail. The Earthlink servers do not expect to see someone from a remote wireless system using their servers to send mail and will refuse the connection. The easiest way around this issue is to use Webmail services from your home ISP, if available.
